

COVID-19 and Direct Payments to Individuals: Comparison of Recent Proposals for a Second Round of Payments

September 30, 2020

The CARES Act (P.L. 116-136), signed into law on March 27, 2020, included direct payments to individuals. These payments, most of which have already been issued, were equal to $1,200 per eligible individual ($2,400 for most married couples), with an additional $500 per eligible child. The payments phase down for higher-income households. (For more information on the CARES Act payments, see the CRS resource guide.)

The following subsequent legislative proposals would provide a second round of payments:

- the Heroes Act (H.R. 6800), which passed the House on May 15, 2020;
- the American Workers, Families, and Employers Assistance Act (S. 4318), which was introduced in the Senate on July 27, 2020 (S. 4318 is one component of what has been referred to as the HEALS Act); and
- the "revised version" of the Heroes Act (H.R. 8406), introduced on September 29, 2020.

Table 1 provides a summary of the major provisions of these proposed second rounds of payments.

Although these proposals differ, there are several major similarities. First, as with the CARES Act payments, all the proposals for a second round of payments nominally structure them as a new one-time refundable tax credit for 2020 that would be automatically issued this year, as opposed to 2021 (when taxpayers will file their 2020 income tax returns). The IRS would determine payment amounts based on 2019 tax return data, or if unavailable, 2018 income tax return data. Second, recipients of Social Security, Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Railroad Retirement, or certain VA benefits who have not filed a recent federal income tax return would be eligible to receive these payments automatically. Third, as with any tax credit, these payments would not count as income or resources for a 12-month period in determining eligibility for, or the amount of assistance provided by, any federally funded public benefit program. Finally, these payments would not be taxable.

Offset and Reduction for Past-Due Debts The CARES Act payments cannot be offset (reduced before being issued) to satisfy certain debts owed to governmental agencies, such as tax debts or unemployment compensation debts.

These payments can be offset for child support debt.

Notes: Estates and trusts are ineligible to receive the CARES Act payments, and would also be ineligible under the three proposals. Under all three proposals, the payments would be extended to the U.S. territories in a manner similar to CARES Act payments.

- a. These individuals would also be ineligible to receive these payments as a tax credit claimed on their 2020 income tax returns if they were considered incarcerated (as defined under 42 U.S.C. 402(x)(1)(A)) for all of 2020.
- b. Adoption taxpayer IDs (ATINs) could also be used for adopted children.
